

In 2013, a small group of volunteers put together the first ever Make Music Upper Perk; a one day celebration of the role of music in our lives – all free and open to the public.

Make Music Upper Perk (MMUP) has grown from showcasing 100 musicians at seven public spaces to over 200 musicians, ranging from 6 – 80 years old, performing all types of music, in five towns, at nearly two dozen venues inside and outside. MMUP, part of a worldwide music festival held in 120 countries on June 21st, is still organized entirely by volunteers, and supported financially by donations from community members. Make Music Upper Perk officially received its 501(c) (nonprofit) status at the end of 2019.

In 2024, we plan to host public indoor and outdoor performances, while continuing the practice of live-streaming some of the music, as part of our 12th year of Make Music Upper Perk
